The lettuce markets remain well off their highs made last month due to improving supplies. Total U.S. iceberg lettuce shipments last week were on par with the same week last year. The chief harvest area in the U.S. will transition to the Salinas, California region in the coming weeks which could be accompanied with some modest price volatility. However, no major supply gap is anticipated during this period. The Idaho potato markets are seasonally firm. History indicates that higher potato prices are likely to occur in the coming months.
