

Tomatoes (Large)

The lettuce markets have eased during the last week due in part to holiday slowed demand. Iceberg lettuce shipments last week were down slightly due to the holiday as well but were still 8% bigger than the same week last year. History suggests that there could be some modest downside for the iceberg lettuce market in the near term. The USDA is forecasting 2018 U.S. fall potato acreage to be slightly bigger than last year. The fall Idaho potato crop could be up north of 4% from last year.
